List 22 Recent Acquisitions Architecture & Planning, with Trade Catalogs Related to Building

1: Architecture

1. BOTTERO, MARIA [ed.] Zodiac 19: A Review of Contemporary Architecture. Ivrea: Olivetti, 1969. This issue with the theme of Geometric Researches, features articles by Buckminster Fuller Design Science -- Engineering, an Architectural Success of All Humanity (1967) Anne Griswold Tyng Geometric Extensions of Consciousness, Frederick Kiesler's theatres and Shrine of the Book, Safdie, Alfred Neumann Architecture as Ornament. Text in Italian and English. $50.00

First edition. 4to; 277 pp.; illustrated from photographs, plans, and drawings. Spine darkened, else a very good copy in original wrappers, in publisher's damaged paper slipcase.

2. (Bridges) STEINMAN, D. B. Bridges. New York: D. B. Steinman, n.d. [1947]. Trade catalog for Steinman's engineering firm, formerly Robinson and Steinman, featuring illustrations and notes on thirteen major projects. With CV, Partial List of Bridge Engineering Engagements, associates, etc. $125.00

Folio. 22 pp.; illustrated from photographs. Some creasing to covers; else a good copy or better in original wrappers.

3. (---) WASHINGTON TOLL BRIDGE AUTHORITY. Lake Washington Floating Bridge: Official Dedication Booklet. Seattle: LWFB Dedication Committee, 1940. Booklet documents the construction of the large floating bridge between Mercer Island and the city to facilitate a new direct traffic route for commuters and shippers. The roadways and approaches to the bridge were well designed and admired; a novel "movable span" to accommodate large vessels on the lake, and a galaxy of other features made driving across the heavily trafficked bridge risky. The floating sections sank during a storm in 1990; rebuilt and renamed Lacey B. Murrow

Bridge after its Chief Engineer. $60.00

First edition. 8vo; illustrated from photographs, drawings, and map. A very good copy in original pictorial wrappers.

4. BROOKHAVEN NATIONAL LABORATORY. The Brookhaven House. Harrisville: Total Environment Action, 1980. A monograph on the Brookhaven House, designed using the concepts of solar energy and "Natural Thermal Storage" to reduce the use of fossil fuels for heating energy. With details and specifications, siting guidelines, etc. $30.00

4to; 14 pp.; illustrated from photographs, plans, and drawings, with two large folding sheets showing plans and elevations. A very good copy in original wrappers.

5. (Chicago) TIGERMAN, STANLEY. Chicago Architecture: Ten Visions. Chicago: The Art Institute, 2004. Catalog for the 2004 exhibition featuring ten local architects chosen by Tigerman with the help of Martha Thorne and Zukowsky. Each participant was asked to define an issue important for Chicago and to create a "spatial commentary" on that theme. $40.00

First edition. Square 8vo (17.5 cm); 16 pp. illustrated booklet and ten loose plates of photographs of participants and their work, in portfolio. A very good copy.

You felt safe in Connecticut. He won't get us here, you told your wife. You looked at your kids, playing on your green lawn and you breathed easy. No way on earth he can do anything up here...

6. (Conn.) MOSES, ROBERT et al. Expressway through New Britain Connecticut. New York: Andrews, Clark, & Buckley, 1951. In 1951, when the state of CT proposed running an expressway directly through New Britain, local merchants and citizens looked for an alternative route and hired Moses to find it. Moses and the consulting engineers Andrews, Clark, & Buckley, along with loyal underlings Sidney Shapiro and William S. Chapin, here propose an alternate route promising fewer relocations of buildings and families, with typical parkway landscaping, more service roads, playgrounds, lower costs, less assessed value, etc. $175.00

First edition. 4to; 18 pp.; illustrated from photographs and drawings, and five large folding maps of proposed routes. A good copy in original printed wrappers. Scarce.

7. (---) ARCHITECTURAL CLUB OF NEW HAVEN. Small Homes of Unusual Merit. New York: Portland Cement Assoc., n.d. [1928] Six designs by local architects for small houses in traditional styles using concrete masonry. $25.00

First edition. Large sheet folded twice; illustrated from perspective drawings and plans. Horizontal mailing folds; else a good copy.

8. DOWLING, ROBERT W. 40 Wall Street: Designed for Working. New York: William E. Rudge's Sons, Inc., n.d. [c. 1935]. An odd little partial facsimile in reduced format of the large promotional book for 40 Wall Street--20 x 26 inches, with 26 pages--allegedly limited to twelve copies and used by Starrett to supplement the conventional floor-plan sales material. This smaller facsimile, 5.75 x 4.25 inches, is a come-on for the Rudge's firm, offering their printing and promotional services. It has clear plexiglass covers like the original and a title page showing a wood engraving of the building; inside are a photograph of the building and two more small woodcuts of Wall Street. $150.00

Facsimile edition. 16mo; 8 pp.; illustrated. A fine copy in original plastic comb-bound plexiglass covers. Publisher's notice laid-in. In publisher's box with traces of sticker removal.

9. FITZPATRICK, F. W. A Chat with the Ladies About House Building. Chicago: Fireproof Magazine, 1905. Offprint of an article based on the accepted wisdom that women make all decisions regarding the design and building of a new house, and suggesting the best and most economical methods of building one that is fireproof. With analyses of several designs, including work by Myron Hunt, Eyre, Pond, Holabird & Roche, and recommendations for building in brick, tile, and stone and eliminating as much flammable wood from the structure as possible. $40.00

4to; 14 pp.; illustrated from plans and photographs. Ex-library with minor indications; covers detached and present; tears to bottom margins. A fair copy only in detached wrappers.

10. (Guastavino) TARRAGÓ, SALVADOR. Guastavino Co. (1885-1962): Catalogue of Works in Catalonia and America. Barcelona: COAC, 2002. A useful monograph on the work of Guastavino in Catalonia and America. Tarragó, along with George Collins and Jaume Russell, assess the Guastavinos' work in Catalonia prior to their relocation in the U.S., and their subsequent success installing thin masonry vaulting in various American buildings. With geographic and chronological lists of commissions and an archive of Guastavino print advertising from the early 20th century. $250.00

First edition. Oblong 4to; 132 pp.; illustrated from photographs, drawings, and details. A fine copy in original wrappers.

11. INSTITUTE FOR ARCHITECTURE AND URBAN STUDIES [PETER EISENMAN, KENNETH FRAMPTON, PETER WOLF, ARTHUR BAKER]. Another Chance for Housing: Low-Rise Alternatives. The catalogue for the 1973 MOMA exhibition featuring low-rise high-density prototypes for urban (Marcus Garvey Urban Renewal Area, Brownsville, Brooklyn) and suburban (Fox Hills, Staten Island) applications. With contributions from Frampton, Eisenman, Peter Wolf, and Arthur Baker. $50.00

First edition. Square 4to; 40 pp.; illustrated from photographs, plans, and drawings. A very good copy in original pictorial wrappers.

12. (Interiors) ARCHITECTURAL FORUM. Office Interiors. New York: Architectural Forum, 1962. Offprint collection of material on office design and interiors from the January 1962 issue. Showing work by Sert, Craig Elwood, Ulrich Franzen, Kahn & Jacobs, others, with appropriate advertising pages. A showcase of mid-century modern design. $30.00

Offprint. 4to (31 cm); 68 pp.; illustrated from photographs, plans, and drawings. Publisher's sticker to cover; penciling to cover; else a good copy in stapled wrappers.

13. (---) BUSINESS EQUIPMENT MANUFACTURERS ASSOC. New Concepts in Office Design. Elmhurst: The Business Press, 1968. A collection of essays on various aspects of contemporary office design by specialized designers. Topics include work stations, lighting, acoustics, modularity vs. free-form clustering, planning principles for a new office, etc. Color authority Faber Birren writes on the impact of color on employee morale and productivity. $40.00

Second edition. 8vo; 101 pp.; illustrated from photographs and drawings. A very good copy in boards, issued without dust jacket.

14. (---) LUPTON, ELLEN & J. ABBOTT MILLER. The Bathroom the Kitchen and the Aesthetics of Waste: A Process of Elimination. New York: Princeton Architectural Press, 1992. A survey of the development of the American domestic kitchen and bathroom between 1890 and 1940. With an interesting premise that the streamline style of modern design emanated from the domestic landscape of the bathroom and kitchen. $30.00

First edition. 4to (27 cm), 74 pp.; illustrated. A fine copy in original wrappers.

15. (Italy) STRUM GROUP. The Struggle for Housing / The Mediatory City / Utopia: Fotoromanzi. [Three volumes] Turin: Strum Group, 1972. Strum Group was an ad hoc group formed specifically to provide edgy but safe contemporary “radical” material for Ambasz’s 1972 Italy: The New Domestic Landscape exhibition at MOMA. As explained by founder Pietro de Rossi in Clip Stamp Fold, he and three colleagues used the popular medium of the “photo-novel” to discuss recent socio-political developments in Turin. Each fotoromanzo deals with a specific issue: Utopia, analyzing work by contemporary visionaries; The Struggle for Housing concerning the fate of Turin’s large immigrant population, and The Mediatory City showing a pragmatic synthesis of the status quo and radical solutions. These three publications were its entire output. $675.00

First edition. Three issues. 4to; 12 pp. each; illustrated from photographs and drawings. A very good set or better in original wrappers. Text in English.

Scarce MOMA Catalog with Scarcer MOMA Slippers

16. (Japan) DREXLER, ARTHUR. Japanese Exhibition House. New York: Museum of Modern Art, 1955. “The Museum has chosen a Japanese Building for its third House in the Garden because of the unique relevance to modern Western architecture of traditional Japanese design.” The house was designed by Junzo Yoshimura and erected in Nagoya in 1953, dismantled and shipped to MOMA in January 1954. After assemblage in the Museum’s garden it was on exhibit throughout 1954; closed for the winter, and re-opened in April 1955 for a second and final season of exhibition, from which this catalog dates. A total of 223,124 visitors passed through the house over the two seasons. $145.00

Second edition. Folded narrow sheet printed both sides; illustrated from plan. A very good copy. With MOMA-supplied crepe paper slippers showing signs of use but in very good condition.

17. (---) ISOZAKI, ARATA et al. Giappone: La Biennale di Venezia 1996 VI Mostra Internazionale di Architettura. Tokyo: The Japan Foundation, 1996. Exhibition catalog for the Japan Pavilion at the Biennale, devoted to chronicling the devastation of the recent Kobe earthquakes, per Isozaki: “I feel [this] focus on the ravages of this severely afflicted city rather than on some optimistic architectural proposal to be a more accurate expression of the state of Japanese architecture today.” Exhibition comprised of photographs, rubble from the destroyed city, etc. Winner of Gold Lion award. Text in English and Italian. $45.00

First edition. 4to; 53 pp.; illustrated from photographs and drawings. A fine copy in original self wrappers.

18. (Landscape Architecture) CHASE, W. THAYER, CATHERINE LYNN et al. The Merritt Parkway. New Canaan: New Canaan Historical Society, 1991. A history of the Parkway, especially as it relates to New Canaan. With articles by Chase, the landscape architect for the project, Lynn, who led the effort for historical designation, etc. $30.00

First edition, New Canaan Historical Society Annual 1990-1991. 8vo (23 cm); 51 pp.; illustrated from photographs. A fine copy in original wrappers.

19. (---) CUSHING SMITH, F. A. American Landscape Architect. Chicago: ALA Co., 1929. “Published monthly in the interest of landscape architects, town planning engineers, plans commissions, park, cemetery, and golf club superintendents, country estate owners,” this premiere issue of an ill-timed venture features a tribute to James Sturgis Pray, Los Angeles work by Ralph Cornell, feature on Shaker Village in Cleveland, article on the Foundation of Architecture and Landscape Architecture in Lake Forest, etc. $55.00

Vol. I, Issue 1, July, 1929. 4to; 4 pp.; illustrated. A very good copy or better in original wrappers.

20. (---) OBRIST, HANS ULRICH et al. La Ville, le Jardin, la Mémoire. Rome: Académie de France à Rome Villa Médicis, 2000. Documentation of contemporary landscape and garden designs and installations, horticultural, artistic, and political. Interviews by Obrist. Graphically, a landmark of bad design and thorough abuse of the grid; over-illustrated, if such a thing is possible, and generally indecipherable in English, French, and Italian. $80.00

First edition. Folio; 192 pp.; illustrated from photographs and drawings. A very good copy in original cloth-backed wrappers.

21. (---) STROUD, DOROTHY. English Landscape Gardening of the Eighteenth and Early Nineteenth Centuries. London: Arts Council of Great Britain, 1951. A catalog for an early exhibition documenting the landscape garden in England. Curated by Stroud who wrote the text. Exhibition consisted of paintings, illustrations, plans, and other contemporary documents. Sadly, unillustrated. $30.00

First edition. Narrow 12mo (18 cm); 24 pp. A very good copy in wrappers.

22. (Los Angeles) CRON, ROBERT. House & Patio The Profile of Southern California: Presenting Research House 1957. Beverly Hills: Cron Publications, 1957. This issue of this quarterly rag published for the building industry features a La Canada house designed by John C. Lindsay and sponsored by House & Patio to showcase recent innovations in building techniques and materials. With details on the house's construction and interior decoration. $60.00

Winter 1957 edition. 4to; 64 pp.; illustrated from photographs, plans, and drawings. The bottom margins were damp at some point; minor rippling. Bright and clean, but a fair copy only.

23. (New York City) BRUSH, WILLIAM D. Building Code of the City of New York: As Amended to January 1, 1926. New York: Bureau of Buildings, 1926. "No wall, structure, building or part thereof shall hereafter be constructed, nor shall the plumbing or drainage, or other equipment of any building, structure or premises, so far as provided for in this chapter be constructed or altered in the city, except in conformity with the provisions of this chapter," etc. $150.00

1926 edition. 8vo; 360 pp.; one small illustration. Owner's name; three small holes to front joint; else a good copy or better in original gilt-stamped green cloth.

24. (---) CASSILETH, MORTIMER & HAROLD W. MCCORMICK. New York City School Buildings: 1806-1956. New York: Board of Education, 1956. Catalog for the Board's sesquicentennial exhibition at the Met. A history of the City's public schools and school houses, including schools for girls, early Brooklyn schools before consolidation, and the design of school buildings in the first half of the 20th century is followed by contemporary [1956] school plans, including work by Harrison and Abramovitz, Kelly & Gruzen, Starrett & Van Vleck, others. $35.00

25. (---) DAVIS, ERNEST H. The Facts Concerning a Municipal Lighting Plant for New York City. New York: National Electric Light Association, 1905. A refutation, by a spokesman for private power supply companies, of an official report to the Mayor and Board of Estimate concerning the cost and utility of a municipal lighting plant. A carbon typescript of [portions of?] the offending report is laid-in. $35.00

8vo; 11 pp. A very good copy in wrappers.

26. (---) HERDEG, KLAUS et al. Working Paper 1 / The New York Federal Archive Building: A Proposal for a Mixed Re-use. New York: Columbia University, 1976. A proposal to the New York Landmarks Conservancy for preservation and reuse of the former Federal Archive building at 641 Washington Street [now 666 Greenwich Street], at the time the largest building in Greenwich Village. Herdeg and members of the Center for Advanced Research in Urban and Environmental Affairs created this mixed-use plan to meet all requirements, with the novel idea of the Conservancy itself serving as developer. $45.00

First edition. 4to; 96 pp.; illustrated from photographs, plans, and drawings. A very good copy or better in original wrappers.

27. (---) MUNICIPAL ART SOCIETY OF NEW YORK. City for Sale: A Benefit Auction for the Coliseum Lawsuit. New York: Municipal Art Society, 1988. Catalog for the auction to support the MAS's suit against the city's proposed sale of the Coliseum site to developer Mortimer Zuckerman. Includes illustrations of donated art work by Hugh Hardy, Voorsanger, Halsband, Stern, Meier, M. Paul Friedberg; works not illustrated from Wines, Hadid, Sorkin, others. $45.00

The Bronx--When You Could Afford to Live There
28. (---) STEVEN L. NEWMAN REAL ESTATE INSTITUTE. Properties No. 3 Spring 2000: A Bronx Profile. New York: Baruch/Newman Real Estate Institute, 2000. A survey of recently constructed housing in the Bronx, with extremely one-sided essays on, and analysis of, the benefits of expanded public housing to the city and its residents. In any event a useful photographic record of housing construction since the devastating neglect of the 1960s. $30.00

First edition. Narrow 4to; 176 pp.; illustrated from photographs and maps. A fine copy in original self-wrappers.

29. (---) PORT AUTHORITY TRANS-HUDSON CORP. Building Better Transit for Tomorrow: PATH's World Trade Center Terminal. New York: Port Authority, n.d. [1969]. Promotional brochure documenting the WTC station under construction. Shockingly few retail opportunities on display--a newsstand, telephone booths--but with the promise of better service, faster escalators, and longer platforms. $60.00

Square 8vo; 12 pp.; illustrated from concept drawings and construction photographs. A very good copy in wrappers.

30. (New York) GORDON, ALASTAIR. Long Island Modern: The First Generation of Modernist Architecture on Long Island 1925-1960. East Hampton: Guild Hall Museum, 1987. 35. SAXTON, GLENN L. American Dwellings. Minneapolis: Glenn L. Saxton, 1906. Saxton, a hyperactive architect, salesman, and self-publisher, provides plans and photographs or perspective drawings for approximately one hundred houses, and about twenty commercial buildings, including churches. When houses have been built the owner's name, town, and date is given; most are located in the midwest. Many of these shown here are dated 1905 and pages I've seen from a later edition show houses built in 1906, evidence of the popularity of these catalogs, if not of the houses shown within. This is the Seventh edition published in 1906; in 1914 Saxton discovered the bungalow and went national and the last edition I can find anywhere is from 1917. Ads for local suppliers scattered throughout. $125.00

Seventh edition. 8vo; 142 pp.; illustrated from photographs, plans, and drawings. A very good copy in original wrappers with color illustration affixed to front cover.

36. WIESER-BENEDETTI, HANS. The Landscape of Industry / Le Paysage de l'Industrie / Het Industrielandschap: Région du Nord - Wallonie - Ruhr. Brussels: Archives of Modern Architecture, 1975. Introduction by Franco Borsi. Catalog for an exhibition surveying the industrial history of northwestern Europe, from early farms and mills through the 19th and pre-war 20th centuries. Examines artifacts, ruins, and extant structures and discusses their role in the shaping of their landscapes. Text in English, Dutch, and French. $50.00

First edition. Square 8vo; 173 pp.; illustrated from photographs, plans, and drawings. Bookplate; else a very good copy or better in stiff wrappers in lightly used dust jacket.

37. (York and Schenke) AP NEWSFEATURES. The House of the Week: Study Plan R-280. New York: Associated Press, n.d. [c. 1962]. Faux blueprint for two-story Cape Cod house by York & Schenke of Garden City. Offered as a weekly promotion by AP through newspapers. Verso of the folding sheet with material list, interior renderings, financing information, etc. $35.00

First edition. 4to; 28 pp.; illustrated from drawings and computer renderings. A very good copy in original wrappers.

45. [GEHRY] EXPERIENCE MUSIC PROJECT™. The Building: Souvenir Book. Seattle: Experience Music Project™, 2000. Souvenir booklet documenting the design and construction of the Gehry-designed building, later known as the Experience Music Project and Science Fiction Museum and Hall of Fame, and renamed again as the Museum of Pop Culture (MoPOP). In 18 years I've never heard of this tourist trap; won't be making the trip. $30.00

First edition. Oblong 12mo; 60 pp.; illustrated from photographs. A good copy in original self-wrappers.

46. [GILBERT] SCHUYLER, MONTGOMERY. The Woolworth Building. New York: Privately Printed, 1913. Frank Woolworth's privately printed edition of Schuyler's essay on the recently completed building. Book designed by Bruce Rogers and illustrated by Earl Horter (with pencil signed lithograph as frontis.) and published in an edition of 1,000 copies, dedicated to the architect Cass Gilbert. The gothic motif rules throughout--surprisingly the text is in a modern typeface but decorations, headers, the devices on the covers, and the very first letter of the essay, illuminated with gold leaf, are reminders of the earlier style so prevalent in the design of this 20th century skyscraper, once the tallest building in the world. $675.00

First edition, limited to 1,000 copies. Narrow folio; 42 pp.; frontis. and nine full-page illustrations of details and perspective drawings by Earl Horter. A fine copy in vellum-backed gilt-stamped boards with embossed white image of building's entrance to front board.

47. GRIMSHAW ARCHITECTS. Grimshaw. London: Grimshaw, 2005. Selected projects, mostly from 2001 on, chosen to "reflect the values that are fundamental to the work of Grimshaw." Includes the Eden Project, Waterloo Terminal, the already-forgotten Fulton Street Transit Center in Manhattan, Grand Union Walk Housing, Southern Cross Station in Melbourne, the Ijburg Bridge, others. $75.00

First edition. Square 4to; 80 pp.; illustrated from photographs. A fine copy in original self-wrappers.

48. GUEDES, PANCHO. Manifestos Papers Lectures Publications / Ensaios Falas Publicações. Lisboa: Orden dos Arquitectos, 2007. A collection of essays by the late Portuguese architect and Team 10 member active in Mozambique and South Africa, published between 1962 and 2004. Text in English and Portuguese. $75.00

First edition. 4to; 290 pp.; illustrated from photographs, plans, and drawings. Crease to top corner of cover; else a very good copy in original wrappers.

49. [HOWE & LESCAZE] STERN, ROBERT A. M. The PSFS Building: Twelve South Twelfth Street. Philadelphia: PSFS, 1981. 72. [WRIGHT, LLOYD] DINGLE, EDWIN J. The Mansion Builder: 20th Anniversary Science of Mentalphysics 1927-1947. Los Angeles: The Institute of Mentalphysics, 1947. The hapless Lloyd Wright, eldest son of the Master, was dispatched to the California desert in 1941 to design and build a new city for Dingle (aka Ding Le Mei), the crackpot utopian founder of "mentalphysics". During the ensuing war years, one can only imagine poor Wright reading reports of American troops storming Pacific Islands, or fighting hand to hand in Europe, with deep envy as he fought hand-to-hand with the Mentalphysicist's dense, CTE-inducing prose, much of which is on display in this pamphlet. The brochure combines Dingle's self-interview with color photos of Wright's work to date: Caravansary, Friendship Hall, Administration Building, housing units. Wright contributes an undated "Outline of General Plan for the City of Mentalphysics" detailing plans for a temple and a shopping center, etc. $375.00

Waiting for Portman

92. (---) DETROIT CITY PLAN COMMISSION. Planning Detroit: 1953-1955. Detroit: CPC, 1955. A report on recent work in Detroit based on a conceptually flawed and almost immediately outdated Master Plan prepared and adopted in the 1940's. Featuring a new Convention Hall and Exhibition Building, expressway loops, federally financed urban renewal, etc. The usual search for solutions that no one has ever found; obsessive concerns for parking in the central business area, parking lots for older shopping centers, assuring space for off-street parking, as well as recreational needs, zoning issues, new schools, etc. $45.00

First edition. 4to; 48 pp.; illustrated from maps and conceptual drawings. A very good copy in original wrappers.

93. (Los Angeles) CITY PLANNING COMMISSION. Know Your Zoning. Los Angeles: Department of City Planning, 1967. Illustrated booklet defining local zoning classifications: commercial, residential, agricultural, industrial, and parking. Lists other details and procedures, variances, etc. $30.00

95. (New York) BARNETT & HERENCHAK, INC. The Fulton Fish Market: Feasibility Report. Newark: Barnett & Herenchak, 1976. There were attempts to save and modernize the venerable market before it was finally forced out of Manhattan in 2005; it's hard to imagine a more challenging project than the one these guys took on. Unions, mafiosi, and real estate developers were to agree on the three-phase proposal offered here: building rehabilitation, redesign of the Tin Building and “improvements in traffic flow coupled with improved fish handling”; a general expansion allowing the market to “function without relocating.” Still a very thorough report, with nice atmospheric renderings, handsome elevations, science fiction traffic reroutings, etc. $50.00

First edition. Oblong 8vo; 82 pp.; illustrated from plans and drawings. A good copy in original plastic comb-bound wrappers.

Why We Can't Have Nice Things

96. (---) COWIN, ANDREW J. Barriers to Building. New York: The Manhattan Institute, n.d. [c. 1995]. Anti-regulation zealots discuss the enormous problems facing real estate developers, problems so overwhelming that I must be imagining that EVERY SQUARE INCH OF MANHATTAN IS UNDER CONSTRUCTION THIS WINTER. With articles denouncing rent regulation (creates housing shortages), subsidized housing (hurts and demoralizes the poor), on the onerous regulations that preclude construction of multi-acre big box stores in Manhattan, the sad lack of Miami Beach-like development along the Hudson, etc. $25.00

First edition. 8vo; 80 pp. A very good copy in original wrappers.

97. (---) INSTITUTE FOR URBAN DESIGN. Visions for Lower Manhattan: New Infrastructure New Visions New Urban Design. New York: IUD, 2002.
